

Time management STARTER

No worries, everyone starts somewhere! Let's work on building your time management skills together. Here are some strategies and tips to get you started.

Strategies

Beginner

- Attend workshops or webinars on time management and scheduling.
- Follow step-by-step guides to create your first schedule.
- Experiment with different tools and find what works best for you.

Flexible

- Use a hybrid approach with a flexible weekly outline and detailed daily plans.
- Incorporate regular check-ins to adjust your schedule as needed.
- Prioritize tasks but allow for flexibility in timing.

Custom

- Identify specific obstacles you face and find targeted solutions.
- Consult with academic advisors for personalized advice.
- Combine different scheduling methods to suit your needs.

Time management STARTER

Resources

Find a schedule system that works for you (physical planner or digital app, etc.)

Digital planners

- Setting up an Apple Calendar for students
- Setting up a Google Calendar for students

Physical planners

- For a physical planner, you can purchase a structured planner with built-in templates or a blank bullet journal to customize the pages according to your needs!
- Keep in mind that you may need to set aside a couple of minutes every day to keep up with the physical planner. Some students find it relaxing and enjoy this part of their day, seeing it as a hobby, while others may find it too time-consuming. It is completely a matter of personal preference!

Pomodoro study timer (note: this study technique may not work for everyone!)

Learn to block time in your schedule

Time management

GENERAL

Here are some additional resources and strategies that can benefit anyone, regardless of your current time management approach.

Strategies

- Use a weekly physical planner or digital tools like Google Calendar or Apple Calendar.
- Break tasks into smaller, manageable steps and set specific goals.
- Prioritize tasks based on deadlines and importance.

Resources

Academic Support and Learning Strategies

- If you would like more help with adapting your study strategies or are struggling to find a method that works for you, please reach out to the RC Academic Advisor Learning Strategies or an RC Academic Peer, and we would be more than happy to assist you!
 - RC Academic Advisor Learning Strategies
 - RC Academic Peers
- U of T Student Life - Time Management
- Sidney Smith Commons - Time management
- Time Management Tips \(YouTube\)